

WASHINGTON, D. C., SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 2, 1908

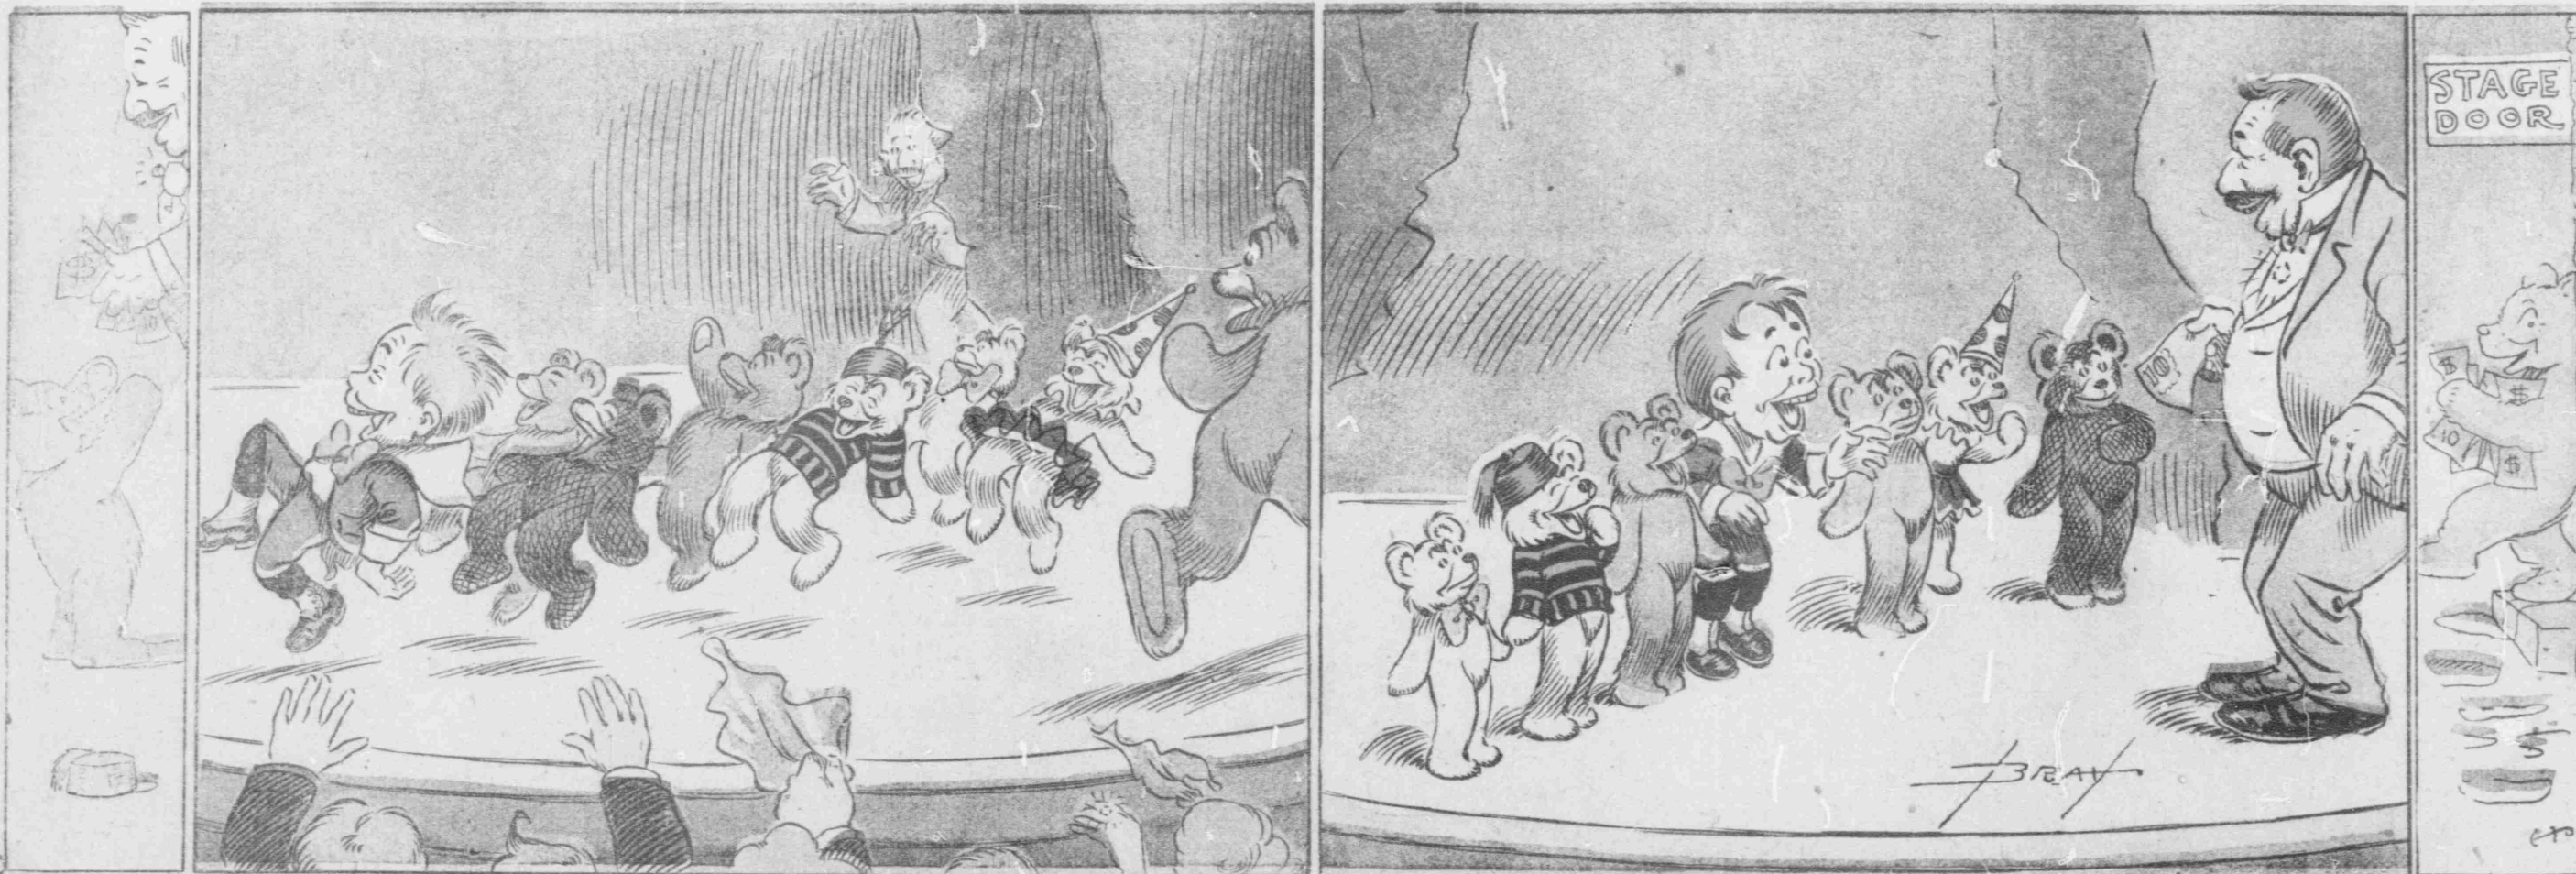

1. John and the Teds thought they would go
 Down town today and see a show.
 At one of the theaters, as they passed by,
 This great big show-bill caught their eye.

2. John bought a box, and in they went
 To see the Man-Bear faker gent.
 Teds almost jumped out of their skin
 When the huge fellow came walking in.

3. And now, before Man-Bear's half done,
 The Teds decide they'll have some fun
 You see the little imps tiptoe
 To get around behind the show.

4. What Mr. Man-Bear tries to do
 The Teds, behind his back, do, too.
 The audience thinks it's screamingly funny,
 And Man-Bear feels he's earning his money.

5. As softly as the falling snow
 The Teddies through their antics go;
 And Mr. Man-Bear's almost sick
 When he looks round and sees the trick.

6. And now the showman comes out front
 And thanks them for their funny "stunt."
 The audience shouts and stamps until
 He also gives them a nice bill
